

This Day On

Gino Vannelli

From this day on you're nothing to me
From this day on there never was no you
If anything at all I'll think of you as something
That got stuck to the sole of my shoe

From this day on you're driven out of my soul
This day on this house is repossessed
As of right now I officially dissolve my unholy alliance
With the Prince of Darkness

From this day on I am free
From this day on you're nothing to me
From this day on my life begins anew
With a love so strong, now that you're gone
What else can I do?

I mistook you for an angel of light
But I was only blinded by your angel face
Truth is, the pure as driven snow queen of heaven, yeah
Is full of something other than grace

If anything at all I'll think of you as something
That got stuck to the sole of my shoe

From this day on I am free
From this day on you're nothing to me
From this day on my life begins anew
With a love so strong, now that you're gone
What else can I do?...
