Glasvegas

You

A door I've yet to open A secret I need knowing A rock I cherish instead of throwing My river to this sea still flowing You

My glow in the dark sea horse never not glowing Through my sails this breeze is blowing My child my flame forever growing My scars from the past I admit I'm postponing for you You

A life long debt I don't mind owing It was to you bowie sang 'he rose in' Never my loneliness can truly be alone When future visions of true love is everyday showing You