Laugh Again

Go Betty Go

What do you say when you're stuck? When everything is messed up? When you're so used to running away? You know what I'm talking about They're right suddenly you're left out It's not so easy this time is it?

How far do we go? How long must I wait?

I'm waiting and waiting For what I don't know I don't need approval Your love or your home If you won't accept me I'll leave here today 'Cause I need to feel alive And laugh again

It's time to break it all off Burn a bridge and start a riot I get the blame for every mistake Help me forget the things that, they said to overwhelm me They got us nowhere, look at us now

How far do we go? How long must I wait?

I'm waiting and waiting For what I don't know I don't need approval Your love or your home If you won't accept me I'll leave here today 'Cause I need to feel alive I need to laugh again.

I'm going crazy And it's breaking up my mind It's weighing down on me And leaving me behind All the time All the time All the time