

The Execution Protocol

God Dethroned

Death breathes down my neck. The sword will soon decide. Who was right and who was wrong. Jesus saves, but death prevails. The execution protocol. The inquisitions death call. The execution protocol. Is it God's decision after all? I look at you, you're my saviour. Bow my head as I kneel. You're the one I fear most. You're the one who wields the sword. The execution protocol. The inquisitions death call. The execution protocol. Is it God's decision after all? Persecution mania of heretics. I climb the stairs to the scaffold. Blind my eyes so I can't see. The grin on your disgusting face. You're a tool of God's inferior race. The inquisitions death call. The execution protocol. Is it God's decision after all?
