Hey You

How many times will I ask how I came to be here? And how many times will you demand that I sacrifice? Hey you What do you want from me? Hey you What are you going to do to me? Primal confusion fills the air Surrounding everything in here Your calloused brain can't comprehend my forced resistance It's never enoughm now I'm in hell I'm running away, find someone else You give me just enough to live on

You cut my tongue out just to stop me from remarking about Everything you want you simplyexpect to be given You'll never change but you keep changing me Hey you Hey you It's never enough now I'm in hell I'm running away find someone else It's never enough now I'm in hell I'm running away find someone else
