

She Don't Have To See You

Golden Smog

you always thought
in a town this size
that you always have a place to hide
but you can't can't treat your woman right if you got another
one on the side

to see through you

you used to brag
to all your friends
telling'em all about
your other love
but you never thought,
you never thought she'd been giving away that very thing
that you've been getting plenty off

she can tell by the look in your eye that you've been telling her lies
to see through you

how many times
you come home late at night you remember all the times got caught sneaking in and your woman
she never said a word
but she knew exactly where you've been

to see through you
