

Think About Yourself

Golden Smog

Starry days, sunny nights
All you do is, think about yourself
Walk around, head in hands
All you do is, think about yourself

Though you tried to rearrange
People in their place

All the things that you created
Were about yourself
All the lines you spent relating
Were about yourself

Hide behind those pretty eyes
And I can read your mind

Every night you close your eyes
Your head is filled with alibis and rules to play
Everywhere I turn I see
The bridges that you burned just to be free again

Summer days, summer nights
All you do is, think about yourself
All the times you spent relating
Were about yourself

Hide behind your pretty eyes
And I can read your mind

Every night you close your eyes
Your head is filled with alibis and rules to play
Everywhere I turn I see
The bridges that you burned just to be free again

Drill the trigger under your thumb
Think of all the damage you've done
Oh, yeah

Every night you close your eyes
Your head is filled with alibis and rules to play
Everywhere I turn I see
The bridges that you burned just to be free again