Sometimes you're up, sometimes you're down Don't let your feet ever thouch this ground Comfort me in times of doubt In deep despair, lies and cares and a falling out With my friends I used to follow Nearly everybody's daughter That's until you came along In a bar-room patrons singing But I just sat there drinking That's until you came along Your star-crossed eyes and your troubled mind Seems you were left just for me to find Sweet lady lay your hands in mine Upon my face laid to waste by years of wine With my friends I used to follow Nearly evevrybody's daugther That's until you came along In a bar-room patrons singing But I just sat there drinking That's until you came along Sweet lady lay your hands in mine Upon my face laid to waste by years of wine With my friends I used to follow Nearly evevrybody's daugther That's until you came along In a bar-room patrons singing But I just sat there drinking That's until you came along With my friends I used to follow Nearly evevrybody's daugther That's until you came along But the darkness just got darker This heart of mine got harder That's until you came along