Anything

Goldfinger

After all this time you're still asking questions You love to fill me up with emptyness I'm a martyr in search of a party I'm a lover in search of a quest

I can see that you don't want anything I can see sometimes you don't want me Just love me the times that I need you I can say then that I am still free

Free-e-e-e-e-e

So you run I walk to the ocean The water it breaks hard against the stone The silouette of you in the moonlight Sends chills dancing right to my heart
