

Just Another Day

Good Old War

Looking out my front door in the morning
I see the light
After noon I'm in the backyard
Passing the time

But when I said goodbye to sunshine
I call on some of my friends
See you soon under the moonlight

Something's moving outside of my house
In the night
It could be the whistle of the breeze
Or some wild life
But we are alright

Drinking our tea, tucked in the bed sheets
I'll dream in melody
How about you? What will you do?

Maybe mother and father still see the light
But when they can sit in the sunshine
They call on each other
See you soon under the moon
See you soon under the moonlight
