

What should I say I guess things didn't go my way but you insist on shining light on my greatest failures fallible is me

but you can see this isn't my reality
it's just the way things go for us someone out there saying "life just isn't fair" but it's the disappointments and the great mistakes that make you wiser and what about the times you set me straight and still left me waiting at the gate

it's just the way things go for us

I'm sick of trying at your way did you really think I'd make it anyway I pulled this splinter from my face and found another worthwhile cause to take your place I woke up ok
it's just another rainy day and I'm feeling the same way as you