The Gypsy

Gordon Lightfoot

Step inside my tent, said she, "I'd like to read you palm" Leave the dollar in the jar, this won't take very long Leave the circus noise behind, close your eyes, relax your mind I'll tell you, if you should quit now or if you should go on

Then I said, "Now what do ya see?" She said, "Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee" Where'll I go, what'll I be? She said, "Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee"

She threw some sawdust in the air and her hands began to shake She told me, the town where I was born, she almost knew the date She lit a candle with her eyes and then she made the table rise She took the dollar from the jar and then she guessed my weight

Then I said, "Now what do ya see?" She said, "Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee" You are so old, you are so wise Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dy

Give me a sign, tell it to me She said, "Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee" Then she spoke most quietly Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee

When you we a child at school they taught you quite a lot You were told when you should speak and when you should not You were taught to read and write, to take your lessons home at night A little knowledge serves you well but the golden rule does not

Then I said, "Now what do ya see?" She said, "Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee" Where'll I go, what'll I be? She said, "Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee"

Then when I came home that night to lie in bed awake I thought of that old gypsy and the words that she had said And now I see with due respect, the more we learn the worse we get So if you feel you've no regrets, go have your fortune read

Then I said, "Now what do ya see?" She said, "Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee" You are so old, you are so wise Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dy

Give me a sign, tell it to me She said, "Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee" Then she spoke most quietly Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee

Where'll I go, what'll I be She said, "Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dee" You are so old, you are so wise

Deedlee-dum, deedlee-dy Give me a sign, tell it to me She said, beedlee-dum, deedlee-dee"
