

The Lost Children

Gordon Lightfoot

Down the hall their voices ring, their feet are on the run
Phantoms on the winter sky, together they do come
Faded lips and eyes of blue, they're carried in the wind
Their laughter filled the countryside but they'll not laugh aga in

All the games are ended now, their voices have been stilled
Their fathers built the tools of war by which they all were kil led
Their mothers made the uniforms, showing which side they were o n
And the young boys were the middle men for the guns to prey upo n

You've seen the fires in the night, watched the Devil as he smi les You've heard a mother's mournful cry as she searches for her ch ild
You've seen the lines of refugees, the faces of despair
And wondered at the wise men who never seem to care

Goodbye, you lost children, God speed you on your way
Your little beds are empty now, your toys are put away
Your mother sings a lullaby as she gazes at the floor
Your father builds more weapons and marches out once more

Down the hall their voices ring, their feet are on the run
Phantoms on the winter sky, together they do come
Faded lips and eyes of blue, they're carried in the wind
Their laughter filled the countryside but they'll not laugh aga
in
