

From Wisdom To Hate

Gorguts

"...By violating the oath sworn to me and not remembering the good I had done him, he had cast off the yoke of my sovereignty... I slew great numbers of his warriors, an immeasurable defeat I inflicted upon him. All the ones who had risen up with him I cut down with the sword."

Chariot traces carved in sand
Once more, pain, will expand my land
Each arrow thrown
Strengthen my throne

Bounds to my realm, the sword shall set
My blade was the one that you've last met
With red-stained hands,
The victor stands

From wisdom to hate
From wisdom to hate

Intrude my peace... war, I'll proclaim
Your empty skull will be my gain
I will, with greed
Watch yourself bleed

With envious eyes, on me you've sinned
Each place I pass are left to ruins
On your decline
My reign will shine

From wisdom to hate
From wisdom to hate

I am the one which none defies
Warfare and I are unified

Wisdom collapse
Hatred soon will rise

Chariot traces carved in sand
Once more, pain, will expand my land
Each arrow thrown
Strengthen my throne

Bounds to my realm, the sword shall set
My blade was the one that you've last met
With red-stained hands,
The victor stands

I am the one which none defies
Warfare and I are unified