Under the Dock Leaves

Gothica

You slide across the branches, Your glitter is fertile pollen, You're shadows in the shape of leaves. A wind that ripples the crest of waves against the current, You caress the rivers but you are the springs.

Your eyes: buds which are moistened by the dew, Beyond webs of obscurity.

The branches swing you Then you glide on your transparent wings.