Better Days

Graham Nash

When your love has moved away You must face yourself and say I remember better days Don't you cry `cause she is gone She is only moving on Chasing mirrors through a haze

Now that you know it's nowhere What's to stop you coming home All you got to do is go there Then you'll really realize what's going down You went to a strange land searching for a truth You felt was wrong That's when the heartaches started Though you're where you want to be You're not where you belong

When your love has moved away You must face yourself and you must say I remember better days Don't you cry `cause she is gone She is only moving on Chasing mirrors through a haze
