

Lost Another One

Graham Nash

Just another morning cup of tea
I turn my radio on
And in between the static and the headlines
I heard that you were gone, we lost another one

There was a time we thought we were invincible,
That we'd go on and on and on and
All along we thought we'd do another show
And write another song, but I guess we've lost another one

Let it slip away, breaking all the silver threads that hold you to your dreams
One day they'll fall and you'll fly away.

After all the trouble and heartache we all go out alone
Nobody else can live your life for you, you're in it on your own.
And we just lost another one.

We let it slip away, yes we did
Breaking all the silver threads that hold you to your dreams
One day they'll fall and you'll fly away.

I've lost a lot of friends on this highway, so long everyone.
I watched them all sail to the distance
Like a setting sun, they'd only just begun
And we just lost another one
We lost another one, we lost another one.
