Coat of Arms

Grand Magus

A glade became the setting
Must have been about noon
Grass so green and tender
Ripped apart by steel clad boots

Mid-day's sun reflected
In weapons sharp as steel
Grim determination
One shall die and one shall live

And the dawn became the winner Sun and moon will rise again Coat of arms shine and shimmer A king has been crowned

Now the wounds are open Blood engulfing all Ready for the gauntlet One will stand and one will fall

And the dawn became the winner Sun and moon will rise again Coat of arms shine and shimmer A king has been crowned

And the dawn became the winner Sun and moon will rise again Coat of arms shine and shimmer A king has been crowned

Alright