

Older Now

Grant-Lee Phillips

The longer you live it gets harder to fake
Hard for the heart to pretend
You're older now
You're older now
It's different than back then

The longer you live the softer you get
Whether you like it or not
You're older now
You take your time
And cherish what you got

The longer you live and you rack up the days
Some of it's hard to shake
But you're older now
You've been around
Learned from your mistakes

Maybe an angel in white dodges regret
But I haven't ran into too many angels yet

The longer you live it gets harder to fake
Hard for the heart to pretend
You're older now
You're older now
The truth is sinking in

You're older now
