I thought I could hear you Echoing words of denial Careful not to feel you near me Clawing out at what you call life Hold on to what you want, hold on to what you have Hold on to where you are, hold on to where... I face the change, I've tasted pain, digging a hole, now take t he blame I fell aside, I cast away, covered in shame, now take the blame Thought I was beneath you Crawling in your bed of lies You infected me with envy Tiny daggers in my eye Hold on to what you want, hold on to what you have Hold on to where you are, hold on to where... I face the change, I've tasted pain, digging a hole, now take t he blame I fell aside, I cast away, covered in shame, now take the blame Thought I could believe you selling me your big surprise Only needing one more victim, tearing down your one disguise Hold on to what you want, hold on to what you have Hold on to where you are, hold on to where... I face the change, I've tasted pain, digging a hole, now take t he blame I fell aside, I cast away, covered in shame, now take the blame