Granny's always ravin' and rantin'
And she's always puffin and pantin'
And she's always screamin' and shoutin'
And she's always brewin' up tea

Grand pappy's never late for his dinner 'Cause he loves his leg of beef And he washes it down with a brandy And a fresh made cup of tea

Have a cuppa tea, have a cuppa tea Have a cuppa tea, have a cuppa tea Hallelujah, hallelujah, hallelujah, rosie lea Hallelujah, hallelujah, hallelujah, rosie lea

If you feel a bit under the weather If you feel a little bit peeved Take granny's standby potion For any old cough or wheeze

It's a cure for hepatitis
It's a cure for chronic insomnia
It's a cure for tonsillitis
And for water on the knee

Have a cuppa tea, have a cuppa tea Have a cuppa tea, have a cuppa tea Hallelujah, hallelujah, hallelujah, rosie lea Hallelujah, hallelujah, hallelujah, rosie lea

Tea in the morning, tea in the evening, tea at suppertime You get tea when it's raining, tea when it's snowing Tea when the weathers fine You get tea as a mid-day stimulant

You get tea with your afternoon tea For any old ailment or disease For Christ sake have a cuppa tea

Have a cuppa tea, have a cuppa tea Have a cuppa tea, have a cuppa tea Hallelujah, hallelujah, hallelujah, rosie lea Hallelujah, hallelujah, hallelujah, rosie lea

Whatever the situation, whatever the race or creed Tea knows no segregation, no class nor pedigree It knows no motivations, no sector organization It knows no one religion nor political belief

Have a cuppa tea, have a cuppa tea Have a cuppa tea, have a cuppa tea Hallelujah, hallelujah, hallelujah, rosie lea Hallelujah, hallelujah, hallelujah, rosie lea
