

Alone

Great White

Tell me which way the wind blows
And of the song it sings
Tell me where did the time go
And for who the bells ring

Baby, days are so empty now
No promises, no pain
I guess I, I guess I realised
I overstayed my day

And I wonder now as I write this down
How it's going to sound when I'm old
Did I learn to fly? Did I reach the sky?
Am I going underground?

But I know, I know
I can tell you, pretty darling, what it means to be alone
And I know, I know
I can tell you, little darling, it's no good to be alone

Sometimes as the rain comes down
I feel it wash away my fears
And sometimes as the rain comes down
It's another veil of tears

And I wonder if I missed a turn
On the long and winding road
Did I lose my eyes? Did my radar die?
Is it time to crash and burn?

But I know, I know
I can tell you without lying, I don't want to be alone
And I know, I know
I know the sky is crying and I don't want to be alone

And if I find you out there in the streets
Will you know me the moment our eyes meet?
Will you find me? Will I know you?

And I wonder if I missed a turn
On the long and winding road
Did I lose my eyes? Did my radar die?
Is it time to crash and burn?

But I know, I know
I can tell you, pretty darling, I don't want to be alone
And I know, I know
I know the sky is crying and I don't want to be alone
