

Sheltered

Greeley Estates

innocence those were the days so young without a care we close our eyes and feel the pain (of getting older)

what have we become have we forgotten

photographs reveal our past sheltered from all that is out there we're blind to see a world that's in need (in need of love)

what have we become have we forgotten who, forgotten who we are what's missing now we're all so empty
