

One More Hill

Greg Graffin

Rich man, poor man, beggar or thief
No matter which one in this life you lead
If you think you've reached the top of the world
Just look around and all you'll see

There's one more hill, just one more hill
There's always a hill left to climb
If you think you've reached the top of the world
The hill of judgment is still left to climb

There's a hill that we build every day that you live
The deeds that we do here below
And tomorrow comes when you reach up above
You may climb that mountain and reach heaven's door

There's one more hill, just one more hill
If you think you've reached the top of the world
The hill of judgment is still left to climb
