

If I Could Do It All Again

Gretchen Wilson

If I could do it all again I'd look more in the mirror
Instead of finding someone else to blame
If I could do it all again I'd do a lot more praying
Less cussing about the things that I can't change

I'd laugh a little louder
Sing more in the shower
Care a little less if I'm in tune
Concentrate on who I am
Not who I might have been
If I could do it all again

If I could do it all again I'd take it a little slower
Make a few more memories I could keep
Crawl in bed beside my child, just lay down and watch her
Soaking up the beauty while she sleeps

I'd work less hours
Buy more flowers
Make more love on rainy afternoons
I might make less money
But I'd make a better friend
If I could do it all again

I've made mistakes
Along the way
But I thank God
It's not too late

I'd walk a little taller
And talk a little smaller
And love the way my maker made me too
Then I'd never spend another minute wondering
What I'd do if I could do it all again
If I could do it all again
