Purple Sky

Greyson Chance

Purple skies and violet rainbows And all the angels passing by With their words they try to break you But they can't shake you with all their lies

Another day we will survive Another day is worth the fight Today we will rise We will walk the rainbows and take over the sky Don't let them change you No 'Cause you are beautiful just like the purple sky

Black mirrors with no reflection Broken hearts and rejection Record times make the sound that call the angels homeward bound

Another day we will survive Another day is worth the fight Today we will rise We will walk the rainbows and take over the sky Don't let them change you No 'Cause you are beautiful just like the purple sky

These are the words and these are the choices We are the children, we are the voices This is the life and these are the questions This is the time we're being tested

These are the words and these are the choices We are the children, we are the voices This is the life and these are the questions This is the time we're being tested

Don't let them change you 'Cause you are beautiful just like the purple sky You are beautiful (People's names) (we remember) We remember 'cause you're beautiful Just like the purple sky
