Guided by Voices

One, two big school Big school Servant to master Sinister bastard All the worlds are Colliding all around you Knowledge escapes you Society rapes you I've got my notebooks And I'm going back to Big school It's the big school Now we're talking about The big school Big school Now if I could free you What would you be then Look at my eyes through the telephoto lens And notice the traces Of faraway places We're both driving my car back to the Big school It's a million miles away And it's in the backyard The big school And it's way up on the hill The big school Big school Don't look back Don't you ever look back Cause it just might catch you Big school Big school