In Stitches

Guided by Voices

What have we here? Where the fragmented mind is Re-assembled A new gift for crying out loud A small token of our appreciation Human amusements at hourly rates? It all makes for trouble math But when the light comes on You leave me in stitches I hear you singing the spiritual getaway Yearning to hike away From hurt and spiny things Who use you for their practice And settlements Permanent holy wars dissolve And crash On the red horizon Busted bottle red sunshine Moonfire flickering