

Footsteps On The Moon

H-Blockx

I hate to spoil the party, but the keg is running dry The DJ finished repertoire and no cannapes in sight So why you keep on dancing on soil of broken glass Life seems like a bottle - empty - Sobriety comes fast The dawn is long gone over and doubters are taboo The king is throwing parties all for footsteps on the moon The curfew on the party is 5 minutes to noon I hope we all can spare the trip to party on the moon

They never promised you anything but to put some Footsteps on the moon They never promised you anything but to put some Footsteps on the moon The never promised you anything The never promised you anything, anything but Footsteps on the moon

Hangover comes into play the underling wake up The king's stuck in his boudoir the best chicks have been fucked Loans that he is chasing with lack of compensation The kingdom they have jeopardized, resources being wasted The basic needs are fed to late the moon stepped on too soon So never promise anything like footsteps on the moon I hate to spoil the party but the king is out of bloom I hope he finds a way of how to party on the moon

They never promised you anything but to put some Footsteps on the moon They never promised you anything but to put some Footsteps on the moon The never promised you anything The never promised you anything, anything but Footsteps on the moon

They never promised you anything but to put some Footsteps on the moon They never promised you anything but to put some Footsteps on the moon The never promised you anything The never promised you anything, anything Footsteps on the moon Ohh

They never promised you anything but to put some Footsteps on the moon They never promised you anything but to put some Footsteps on the moon The never promised you anything The never promised you anything, anything but Footsteps on the moon