

Vor dem Sturme

Haggard

Marching long and far

Day turns to night

Scattered campfires flicker on three thousand mighty warriors who the sharpen their swords and axes

Never knowing if they will return