Chained To A Memory

Hank Locklin

Makes no difference if we two are far apart dear I could never ever love somebody new Cause there isn't any room inside my heart dear While I'm chained to a memory of you I could never tell another I belong to them All those whispered words of love would not be true I could never tell another that I long for them Cause I'm chained to a memory of you Maybe time will wear the links away and then dear They will break and set me free to love a new But I'll never love someone else again dear while I'm chained t o a memory of you If the world should end tomorrow I'd be satisfied Cause you're gone and there is nothing I can do All my dreams and precious hopes of yesterday have died Yet I'm chained to a memory of you
