All I Can Hold To

Hank Snow

Another cryin' night will soon be over now The morning light won't help, I'll still be blue 'Cause everywhere I turn there's only loneliness Memories are all I can hold to

Memories are the moments when we were as one Memories you would only hope to find Memories, in your loving arms, you'd whisper my name Then I would feel your burning limbs on mine

All these memories are locked within my heart My world was gone the moment I lost you If wants could talk, they'd tell you of the tears I've cried But memories are all I can hold to

Memories are the moments when we were as one Memories you would only hope to find Memories, in your loving arms, you'd whisper my name Then I would feel your burning limbs on mine Then I would feel your burning limbs on mine
