Moanin'

Hank Snow

Moanin' my life slowly away Sittin' here waitin' for the new commin' day They try to cheer me as I trudge on my way Moanin' for you

Can't seem to hide it and why should I try Good Lord, he knows it up there in the sky A million heartaches with your last goodbye Left me moanin' for you

Work these poor fingers way down to the bone When things seemed right my whole world went wrong Then I found your letter, baby, sayin' so long I've been moanin' for you

They find me alone at the close of the day Countin' each petal from your rose bouquet Guess I'll be here till eternity Moanin' for you

This ole rockin' chair, I have rocked it apart
The last spark of flame in my fireplace is dark
But this old flame that's burnin' deep down in my heart
Keeps me moanin' for you

Work these poor fingers way down to the bone When things seemed right my whole world went wrong Then I found your letter, baby, sayin' so long I've been moanin' for you
