

Building Memories

Hank Williams Jr.

I don't have to tell you what I've got on my mind
Cause you already know it you can see it in my eyes
After the night is over and the morning you'll set me free
And I'll be remembering while you're forgetting me

But tonight you're going love me like you've known me all of your life
Yes tonight you're gonna make me feel alright
But I'm just another page in your book of broken dreams
And you're my cornerstone for building memories

Tomorrow is a lonely world for you and me to face

Trying in desperation just to make it through the day
If I can stay half sober and you would ever change
Together we can make it we got only us to blame

But tonight you're going love me like you've known me all of your life
Yes tonight you're gonna make me feel alright
But I'm just another page in your book of broken dreams
And you're my cornerstone for building memories