

Don't Never Leave Me

Hanoi Rocks

Don't you ever leave me baby, don't you ever leave me now Don't you ever leave me baby, if you leave me you will kill me
now
The lights are slowly going down, out on Times Avenue
And me, I'm all alone, watching the rain falling down on my face
A crowd of people passing by, I don't think they recognize me They fade away into the night, that's when I think about you Don't you ever leave me baby, don't you ever leave me now
I start living in the memory of you, I start living in the memory of you I start living in the memory of you, and the memory of all the things That you and me used to do, yeah, and there's one more thing I wanna tell you I wanna tell you how much I really love you, and I really do
The lights are slowly going down, out on Times Avenue
And me, I'm all alone, watching the tears falling down on my face
A subway train is passing by, driving into the night I jump inside cause I ain't got nowhere to sleep, that's when I think about you
Don't you ever leave me baby, don't you ever leave me now
of you, I start living in the memory of you And all them funny things, that you and me used to do You remember, you remember all them things, that you and me used to do
Don't forget, don't bloody never forget, don't you ever leave me baby
Don't you ever leave me now, don't you ever leave me baby
If you leave me you will kill me now
I start living in the memory of you, I start living in the memory
of you, I start living in the memory of you And the sweet taste of your lips, and the sweet taste of your body
And the sweet taste of the lips between your legs
