

Tonight

Hanson

Tonight is the first night
Tonight is the last night
Don't care what has come before
Tomorrow's an open door
So box to the ropes and jump in the crowd
Throw up your hands and sing it out loud
Oh, tonight

Well it might be a shame and you might be disheartened
To be back on the rocks this time around
I've seen the sunshine and I've seen the rain
When you walk the line brilliance can sound insane

But tonight is the first night
Tonight is the last night
Don't care what has come before
Tomorrow's an open door
So box to the ropes and jump in the crowd
Throw up your hands and sing it out loud

And say what you mean and mean what you say
And tonight
Chase down the dream and don't give up without a fight
And don't wait for tomorrow's daylight
'Cause it just might be tonight

When you're too tired to walk and too scared to run
And your heavyweight knees buckle under a ton
Blue sky visions turn into a storm
I've got suspicions you won't make it one more
Well there's no silver lining, there's nothing to lose
So don't wait for tomorrow
Don't wait for tomorrow

'Cause tonight is the first night
Tonight is the last night
Don't care what has come before
Tomorrow's an open door
So box to the ropes and jump in the crowd
Throw up your hands and sing it out loud
Oh, tonight

Say what you mean and mean what you say
And tonight
Chase down the dream and don't give up without a fight
And don't wait for tomorrow's daylight
'Cause it just might be tonight

Don't wait for tomorrow
Don't wait cause it just might be
Don't wait for tomorrow
Don't wait cause it just might be
Don't wait for tomorrow
Don't wait cause it just might be
Don't wait for tomorrow
Don't wait cause it just might be
Don't wait for tomorrow

Don't wait cause it just might be
Don't wait for tomorrow
Don't wait cause it just might be
Don't wait for tomorrow
Don't wait cause it just might be
Don't wait for tomorrow
Don't wait cause it just might be
Don't wait for tomorrow
Don't wait cause it just might be
Don't wait for tomorrow
Don't wait cause it just might be
Don't wait for tomorrow
