Ten Thousand Reasons

Woman, I know It's just a game we're playing in my mind It's just a game we're playing in my soul I should be running away I know Fires still burning in my heart Fires still burning bright I got ten thousand reasons to go You're destroying my heart but I still can't let go I got ten thousand reasons but it seems like I need one more (o ne more) One more (one more) I can't let go Leave you alone Holding onto you Just makes me look a fool Woman, I know I've got your poison running through my veins My heart is craving you again and again I should be running away I know I can't let you go no matter how I try Fire is burning right

I got ten thousand reasons to go You're destroying my heart but I still can't let go...

Hardline