Slowly Slipping Away

Harem Scarem

There's a burning question in my heart But I see the answer in your eyes An uneasy feeling without you There's only peace by your side Our hearts survived the cold world outside Somehow this love keeps us alive I feel it in the morning I feel it all through the day I feel the heartache, slowly slipping away, slowly slipping awa У We've had our share of confusion We've been let down so many times before But what I've found is a real love No need to search anymore, no Somehow we've weathered the storms in our lives This love has never been a lie We will survive the cold world outside Somehow this love keeps us alive