

Remember

Harmony

Sunrise, the garden of Eden was facing its first day
A paradise on earth, and it was meant to stay that way

Now we are fighting wars, thinking we're smart - It's insane!
We say we're bringing peace, but we're only bringing pain

The past can't be redone, we all know so well
Have we made paradise into a living hell?

Remember, if tomorrow's the final day
Still plant your free anyway

A silent reflection, a thought of what once was
Would it still be there, if it wasn't for us

We say we conquer all, for all times we're here to stay
It doesn't make any sense, feels like we're fading away

Sometimes it's easier to give up and give in
But as wise man said: Run the race to win

Remember, if tomorrow's the final day
Still plant your free anyway

Remember, if tomorrow's the final day
Still plant your free anyway (3x)
