

Problems And Bigger Ones

Harvey Danger

Cross through the border states.
To the wrong side, wrong side,
And look away, Virginia.

Spend every day like the past is a bridge;
Crossing twenty years.
Whispers away, not so much;
Get your poison tongue out of my ear.

Here's a fact you cannot rise above:
We'll have problems, yeah, then we'll have bigger ones.

From damaged to damned control.
You wanted to go alone though.
I've never said no, I never said no.
I've never said no, I never said no.

Spiteful confrontations, trial separations,
It's just another present to get past.
The man was very helpful but I knew he wouldn't stay.
There used to be a baby but the baby went away.

Forswear what you undergo.
You wanted to go alone though.
I've never said no, I never said no.
I've never said no, I never said no.

It doesn't make me cry to hear Dylan say,
"Most likely you go your own way"
"I'll go mine. I'll go mine."
"I'll go mine. I'll go mine."
"I'll go mine. I'll go mine."

Forswear what you undergo.
You wanted to go alone though.
I've never said no, I never said no.
I've never said no, I never said no.