

Memories of Misery

Hawthorne Heights

I had a dream last night
When I awoke the sky was on fire
There was a war outside
But on the death of our own desire
History repeats itself
We are a people in need of help
With fragile lives and brittle bones
We all fall down

My memories of misery
Wont save me from the storm
I lie awake till the sun comes up
And the water breaks on the shore

A bond is unbroken
A lot of words are left unspoken
Your left out in the freezing cold
I'll fight for you and streets fight with gold
In our fragile lives with brittle bones
We all fall down

My memories of misery
Wont save me from the storm
I lie awake till the sun comes up
And the water breaks on the shore

Don't leave me now I'm drowning
And all I have has been lost
These memories of misery
Are all I've got

Tomorrow has left me behind
Now I'm stuck in yesterday
Your attic is flowing like wine
From all the choices we make
I know that times no longer on our side
But our skeletons will remain
My darling I wont let this die
And our voices can not be chained

My memories of misery
Wont save me from the storm
I lie awake till the sun comes up
And the water breaks on the shore

Don't leave me now I'm drowning
And all I have has been lost
These memories of misery are all I've got
