Nothing In This World Will Ever Break My Heart Again

Hayden Panettiere

I finally kept my pride and hailed a cab Those cuttin' words you said were the last stab There'll be no tears this time, they've all dried up No more sweet poison, I already drank that cup

This tunnel's dark, but there's a little light glowing Just enough for me to run towards knowing

Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again No pain this life will put me through will ever ever hurt like you

Don't need a miracle, a superhero There's only one way up when you're at zero You took my innocence, but it was knowing No I don't need you, and that made me a woman

I paid my dues, but it's a debt I'm done paying I'm standing strong, but I'm still on my knees praying

That nothing in this world will ever break my heart again Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again No pain this life will put me through will ever ever hurt like you

Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again No pain this life will put me through will ever ever hurt like you

Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again Nothing in this world will ever break my heart again
