

Lullaby

Hayden

The long long day is through
The light's been replaced by blue
You lie awake in your room
Thinking about what to do
And everything depends
On one single chance
Should you accept this dance

The last ten years have flown
Days come and then they go
Is this your life you're meant to know
Is it too late for you to glow
Everything depends
On one single chance
Should you accept this dance

The long long day is through
Figure out what is true
Close your eyes and think about
What you can live without
Close your eyes and think about
What you can live without