The victim

Head East

This should be the last thing I will say to you
You should never hear my voice again
There is nothing more that I can say to you
But I can't seem to find another friend

I have meant so little in your lifetime
You only used me for your foolish schemes
I was the victim of your sweet deception
But you're the only one I'll ever need

You have brought me down so far
I'll never understand
How anyone as cold as you
Could mean so much to any man

I was pleased to satisfy
But you were sly and that is why
I used to think that you and I were lovers
Isn't that the way you made it seem
I want so much to leave and find another
And maybe find out what love really means
Really means
Really means
Really means, yeah