

Down the Nile

Heart

Lying right beside you all the things we done
This I didn't plan now I understand we're one
We belong together no more need to fight
Underneath the skin we can let it in and float it through the night

And I ain't never been here before, oh no
And you, you come and knock on my door

Floating down that moonlight river lighter than a child
Warmer than the seven breezes floating floating down the Nile
Softer than the clouds around us filling up my eyes
Silky as your burning kisses floating floating down the Nile

And I ain't never been here before, baby
You come and knock on my door

Floating down that moonlight river lighter than a child
Warmer than the seven breezes floating floating down the Nile
Softer than the clouds around us filling up my eyes
Silky like your burning kisses floating floating down the Nile
Floating floating down the Nile, oh yeah yeah yeah
