Don't Look For Love

Heather Small

People search but they don't know what they're searching for People hurt but they don't know what they're hurting for People lost but they don't know what they're looking for People search but they don't know what they're searching for

Living, giving The rhythm of your soul it's calling out to you You'd better listen, listen good

Nothing stopping You fulfilling every wish and every thought You know there's a power inside of you

Don't look for love Don't look for, let it find you Don't look for love, don't look for love Let it find you

Don't look for love, don't look for love Don't look for, let it find you Don't look for love, don't look for love Let it find you

People search but they don't know what they're searching for People work but they don't know what they're working for People hurt but they don't know what they're hurting for People search but they don't know what they're searching for

Living, giving The rhythm of your soul is calling out to you You'd better listen, listen good

Seeing, feeling is believing Do what you wanna do You know there's a power inside of you

Don't look for love Don't look for, let it find you Don't look for love, don't look for love Let it find you

Don't look for love, don't look for love Don't look for, let it find you Don't look for love, don't look for love Let it find you

People search but they don't know what they're searching for People lost but they don't know what they're looking for People work but they don't know what they're working for People search but they don't know what they're searching for

Living, giving The rhythm of your soul is calling out to you You'd better listen, listen good

Nothing stopping You fulfilling every wish and every thought You know there's a power inside of you Don't look for love Don't look for, let it find you Don't look for love, don't look for love Let it find you Don't look for love, don't look for love Don't look for, let it find you Don't look for love, don't look for love Let it find you Love, love Let it find you Love, love

Let it find you