

A Dying Ember

Heaven Shall Burn

these darkened days and restless nights are assign by like never ending years what is left for me to keep me bearing up against this pain buried deep inside my soul all that's left are my memories these pictures of unworried days but no one's there to save my legacy it will just perish, fade with me no one awaits me, nothing diverts me this withered body is no empty shell

a dying ember

there is my god to carry me
but in this world, I needed you

no one awaits me, nothing diverts me
this withered body is no empty shell and my bright eyes still realize your apathy my heart beats strong, it still beats strong

there is my god to carry me
but in this world, I needed you

What is left for me to keep bearing up against this pain there is no god to ease this pain nothing to live for nothing to fight for and emptiness fills my days all my hope, a dying ember just promise me to hold my hand