

Forthcoming Fire

Heaven Shall Burn

See the mighty sky turns into black, The horizon keeps on burning.
Stench of decay carried by the winds, It melts my mind to see the agony.
They're drowned in an ocean of lies, They're burnt in the fire of temptation.
Helplessness and failure, the chains that paralyze my soul,
Too cold your feelings, Too strong your lies,
Can't reach your hand, Can't read your thoughts.
The forthcoming fire to end the slavery, The forthcoming fire to clean the minds
As long as you deny the power of your heart, You won't reach the sky,
You won't feel what passion means, And after thousand days of fire the sun will shine again.