

Whatever It May Take

Heaven Shall Burn

One by one they fall
and I just close my eyes.
It won't be over soon
do you regret this time?
I thought so many things were certain.

So many friends turned to the ones I hate.
You fade away forever
the hands of time.
I wanna see the things
just how they are feel them,
like a child would do.

Will this kid in me will survive this process?
Narrowed minds
I'll burst your mental chains even,
if I'll live like them
my heart is free.

I won't become a tool, a puppet.
I'll bite the hand that wants to feed me.
My will to live against your world of zombies.
Blindfold the eye,
that watches all of us and even,
if I live like them my heart is free.

I'll never walk your way
whatever it may take.
You never break my will whatever it may take.