

These Streets

Heights

There is nothing to keep me here
The only reason is dragging me under
Drowned by all my insecurities
I know you try to understand, understand.

As I grow apart from all that I've ever know
Retracing lines, reliving lies
Searching for something more, there must be something more
Retracing lines, I'm reliving lies.

The comfort and security
Hides fear and broken dreams
In a broken town, where nothing changes
Life passes by on the wind
And home is where you lay your head, lay your head.

I never knew these streets so cold,
I never knew that I could be so cold.
I never knew these streets so cold,
I never knew that I could be so cold.

As I grow apart from all that I've ever know
Retracing lines, reliving lies
Searching for something more, there must be something more
Retracing lines, I'm reliving lies.

Relive lies